Abstract

A method of modifying a programmable schedule for a controller and a controller are disclosed having a user interface. The method includes the steps of providing,

5   simultaneously or sequentially, two or more schedule override choices to a user via the user interface, accepting a selection of one of the two or more schedule override choices from the user via the user interface, and modifying temporarily the schedule based on the user responses provided by the user interface.